I. Overview

A. Purpose of the Database

The Child Care and Development Fund block grant is in some sense not a single program, but more than 50 different programs operating within a common overarching set of policy guidelines and mission. While the federal CCDF regulations provide clear guidelines and a policy framework for states, each state, each territory, and the District of Columbia are responsible for establishing a range of critical policies. For example, they are responsible for setting income levels for determining eligibility (as long as they fall under the federal ceiling), as well as defining income and whose income within the household must be counted. Similarly, states/territories are responsible for determining how often a family must reapply, when they must report changes in income or other eligibility criteria, and what changes need to be reported, how income is verified, and how much the family must pay in copayment. There is also variation in policies related to providers, including the maximum amounts that providers will be paid, whether they are paid for holidays or sick days, and whether they are paid retrospectively or prospectively. All of these policies, as well as many others that also differ across states/territories, affect how the CCDF program meets the needs of families and providers in a particular area.

This variation across states can present major challenges for both researchers and policymakers who need to have a consistent, comprehensive source of cross-state information on the details of a range of CCDF policies. The CCDF Plans states submit every three years as well as resources provided by the Office of Child Care and other organizations provide useful information about CCDF policies, but they do not always include the full level of available detail. The CCDF Policies Database, funded by the Office of Planning, Research and Evaluation, was created to provide a single source of detailed CCDF policies across states and over time. The Database was designed to create a resource that supports the needs of a variety of audiences through different products:

- (1) A detailed, longitudinal Database of CCDF policy information for all states, the territories, and the District of Columbia. The Database captures the policies actually in effect at a particular point in time, rather than proposals or legislation. It focuses on the policies in place at the start of each fiscal year, but also captures changes during a fiscal year.
- (2) An ongoing Book of Tables publication, with key policies from the CCDF Policies Database in tabular form for October 1 of each year.
- (3) Data Files, with the full detail of the database available in multiple formats, including Excel, SAS, Stata, and SPSS.
- (4) A public website and user interface that allows users to customize searches and access related materials.

B. Design of the Database

The database is organized into 32 categories, as shown in Section V. The focus is CCDF rules; the database does not contain information on caseloads, budgets, or outcomes. In addition, the database does not explicitly address the possibility that the rules found in state manuals or regulations may be applied differently in practice.

Each category listed in Section V contains a series of variables designed to capture the intricacies of the rules covered in the category. The variables include a mix of categorical, numeric, and text variables. Each variable has a corresponding notes field to capture additional details related to that particular variable. In addition, each category has an additional notes field to capture any information regarding the rules that is not already outlined in the category's variables.

For each state, timeframe, and category, the database contains at least one record of information outlining the exact rules for that particular state and during that particular time. Multiple records for a given state, timeframe, and category may exist.

Multiple records are coded if rules differ across key variables, such as:

- County
- Program
- Family Group
- Provider Type
- Provider Subtype

Note that multiple records are not coded for every county or sub-state region in those states that vary their programs at the local level. Due to the difficulty of collecting data and coding data for multiple areas within a state, the database contains only the policies for the most populous county or region and possibly a handful of additional areas as pre-determined by project staff.

II. The Database

A. Tables

Tables in the database resemble standard spreadsheets. There are two types of tables: data and definition tables.

a. Data Tables

Data tables hold the coded CCDF policies information. For each category, a table exists that contains the values of all the variables for that category. In the table, there is a separate column for each variable in the category. Each row corresponds to a separate record for each state and timeframe. The tables are sorted by state and time.

Data are generally entered through forms in the database. The data entered create a record that is stored in the tables. Data can also be entered directly into the tables, or can be created by importing an Excel spreadsheet.

b. Definition Tables

Definition tables contain the names, descriptions, and variable types for the variables in each category. One of the largest definition tables is the variables table. This table contains all variables for all categories in the database.

Each of the key variables in the record “header” also has a corresponding definition table. For example, Provider Type corresponds with the table “ProviderTypes.” This table lists the provider type names.

B. Types of Variables

For each category, a series of variables is used to describe the exact policies used by a particular state during a particular timeframe. There are three different types of variables:

a. Numeric variables

Numeric variables will only allow the coder to enter a number in the field. However, text can be entered in the corresponding notes field. Predetermined negative numbers are used for options that are not numeric (such as NA or Not in manual).

b. Categorical variables

Categorical variables have a set of pre-determined responses for the coder to choose from. Additional information can be captured in the corresponding notes field.

c. Text variables

Text variables allow the coder to enter text. Most of the text variables limit the amount of text that can be entered in the field. Additional information can be captured in the corresponding notes field.

d. Additional fields

Most variables have a corresponding notes field that allows the coder to enter details or nuances of a state's rules that are not captured in the available fields.

Each category ends with an additional notes field. These fields are free-form text variables where the coder can enter any other information about that category that does not fit within the specific variables.

Periodic changes to the variables are anticipated because existing variables may not adequately capture states' changing policies. Specifically, entries in the various notes fields is reviewed to determine if new variables should be created or if existing variables should be altered.

III. Coding Specifics

A. When New Records are Coded

General Rule: A new record is coded for a particular category only when there is a change in policy, creating a different set of rules than what was previously coded.

B. Header Variables

1. Variables

a. State

The state to which the rules of the record apply

Both the state name and the FIPS code are shown.

b. County

The county (or other geographic area) to which the rules of the record apply

County-level records are only coded in states that have county-level (or other sub-state area) policy making. If a state has county-level policies, the policies for the largest county or the county are coded. It is then determined which additional counties, if any, will be coded.

If the state does not have county-level policy making, the coder selects “all counties” for this field. In many states, county-level policies are only coded for certain categories, such as reimbursement rates, and all other categories have state level policies.

c. Beginning Date and End Date

The beginning effective date of the rules of the record and the end effective date of the rules of the record

The date fields are formatted yyyy/mm/dd. There is only one record per state per time period, unless different counties, program, family group, provider group, and provider level are coded. For a state, the beginning date of one record picks up where the previous record's end date left off.

Example:

Record 1	state: Alabama	beginning date: 2007/10/01	end date: 2007/12/01
Record 2	state: Alabama	beginning date: 2007/12/02	end date: 2008/09/01

If the manual only provides a month and year, “01” is coded for the day.

Example:

Manual: October, 2009

Code Beginning Date: 2009/10/01

The end date of a record is temporarily coded “9999/12/31.” This indicates the policies captured in that record are still in effect. When a new record is coded to reflect a policy change, the previous records end date is updated.

d. Begin Majority Date and End Majority Date

The beginning and end date for the majority record, or record that applies to the majority of the caseload in a given state and time period

The majority record is coded with date fields that match the Beginning and End Date fields. The use of 8888/88/88 indicates the record is not the majority record.

If there is only one record coded for a state and time period, then that record is marked with the majority dates. If there are multiple records for a given state and time period (coded for different programs, counties, etc), then the coder will have to select which record or records to code as the majority record. The begin and end majority date fields are only coded with dates for the most populous area of the state. In most cases, the dates will be coded for the record or records that apply to the whole state. When policies vary at a sub-state level, and there is no state-wide record, the majority date field is coded for the record or records that apply to the most populous sub-state area.

The majority date fields will correspond with the date fields for the given record.

e. Majority Checkbox

The variable to indicate the primary policy, or record that applies to the majority of the caseload in a given state and time period

The majority checkbox is only marked once per state and time period for a particular category. A value of (-1) in the data files indicates the box has been marked/checked for a given record. A value of 0 (zero) indicates the record is not the majority record.

If a user is interested in seeing only one record for a given state and time period, the majority checkbox can be used to determine the primary policy. For most categories, the record with the majority checkbox checked will correspond with the majority record as indicated by the majority beginning and end dates. The exceptions to this are the eligibility thresholds, copayment amounts, copayment thresholds, reimbursement rates, and reimbursement rate policies categories (described below).

If there is only one record coded for a state and time period, then that record will have the majority checkbox checked. If there are multiple records for a given state and time period (coded for different programs, counties, family groups, provider types, etc.), then the coder selects which record to code as the majority record (as described below). The majority checkbox will be checked for the record that applies to the majority of the caseload. The checkbox unchecked indicates the record is not the primary policy.

For eligibility thresholds, the majority checkbox will be checked if the record is the majority record (i.e., the majority beginning and end dates are not coded 8888/88/88) and the record is not coded for a subgroup of families (e.g., non-TANF families or families without special needs children).

For copayment amounts and copayment thresholds, the majority checkbox will be checked if the record is the majority record (i.e., the majority beginning and end dates are not coded 8888/88/88), the record is not coded for a subgroup of families, and the record applies to all providers or the base rate for center providers. If the copayments vary by the number of children in care, the primary policy is the record for families with one child in care. If the copayments vary by provider type or sub-type, the primary policy is the record that corresponds with the base reimbursement rates for center providers (in the reimbursement rate category).

For reimbursement rates, the majority checkbox will be checked if the record is the majority record (i.e., the majority beginning and end dates are not coded 8888/88/88), the record is coded for Centers or All Providers, and the record captures the base maximum reimbursement rates (i.e., the variable ReimburseBase is checked).

For reimbursement rate policies, the majority checkbox will be checked if the record is the majority record (i.e., the majority beginning and end dates are not coded 8888/88/88) and the record is coded for Centers or All Providers.

f. Program

The program to which the rules of the record apply

The program name entered is the program name listed in the manual. For example, if a state calls its program Child Care Assistance Program, this is the name entered in the program field. Some states will have more than one program name.

g. Family Group

The family subgroup to which the rules of the record apply

This field will usually be coded "All."

Family group is coded when there are different rules, within the same program, for a subgroup of families (for example, different copayments may be provided for families with children with special needs). If the differences are already captured in the variables, a separate record is not coded.

h. Provider Type

The provider type to which the rules of the record apply

Provider type is coded when there are different rules for different types of providers. This is relevant for the categories associated with provider policies and reimbursement rates. It is expected that different records will be coded for different types of providers for reimbursement rates. Provider types include Center, Family Child Care Home, In-Home, and Group Child Care Home.

1. Center applies to formal care provided in a non-residential facility.
2. Family Child Care Home applies to formal or informal care provided in someone's home (not the home of the child).

3. Group Child Care Home applies to formal or informal care provided in someone's home (not the home of the child). Many states may not distinguish between family and group home care. If this is the case, family child care home is used. If the state does distinguish between the two types of care, the rates for the provider serving a smaller number of children is coded as Family Child Care Home and the rates for the provider serving a larger number of children is coded as Group Child Care Home.
4. In-home applies to care provided in the child's home. In-home is also sometimes used for care provided in a relative's home.

For categories related to provider policies (all unlicensed home-based provider policy categories, other provider policies, and reimbursement rate policies), Provider Type is never coded NA. It is either coded for a specific type of provider or coded "All."

i. Provider Subtype

The provider subtype to which the rules of the record apply

Provider subtype is coded when there are different rules for different subtypes of providers. This may include different quality ratings, different licensing standards, etc. This is relevant for the categories associated with reimbursement rates and sometimes for provider policies. Not all states have different rates for different subtypes of providers, but many do. For example, a state may use the same rates for all providers or it may use a higher rate for licensed providers than it uses for unlicensed providers.

C. All other variables

1. Percentages as whole numbers

Percentages are coded as whole numbers. For example, if the answer to a variable is 15 percent, the variable is coded 15 rather than 0.15.

2. Special Codes

a. Not Applicable (NA)

In the following cases, NA is coded in the variable field:

1. An entire category does not apply for a given state

Example: If a state does not have an assets test, the question asking if there is an assets test is coded no. All other variables in the category are then coded NA.

2. A previous variable completely explains the rule and additional information about the variable is not needed.

Example: If travel hours are not authorized, then the next question giving the maximum number of travel hours is coded NA.

3. The variable instructions specify the use of NA for a given situation.

Example: If TANF families are not eligible for CCDF subsidies, the question about whether TANF families have different activity requirements is coded NA.

b. Not in manual

Not in manual is coded if the information cannot be found in the caseworker manual and there is no clear indication of whether the policy exists.

Example: If the manual gives eligibility requirements, including how income is counted, but does not list any assets tests, “not in manual” is not coded. In this case, the absence of an assets test in the manual implies there is no assets test.

Example: If a state does not put any information about provider requirements in the manual, “not in manual” is coded. The absence of provider policies probably means that those policies are covered in another document or manual that is not being tracked on a regular basis as part of the project.

VI. Detailed Database Categories

1. Basic Criteria for Eligibility

General Notes/Concepts:

To be eligible for CCDF assistance, the family must meet certain criteria not related to income or assets. The following variables outline those criteria. Clients must meet the children's age eligibility requirements. They also must meet the activity requirements or fit one of the "other eligibility" criteria. The variables apply to families who are not automatically eligible for CCDF subsidies.

Subgroup Issues:

The general rule is coded for each variable, and any subgroup variation is noted. For example, if only TANF families are allowed to participate in job search activities, the variable for job search activities is coded No and the notes explain that only TANF families are eligible for job search activities.

Additional Coding Notes:

If the state's policies differ for initial and continuing eligibility, the policies for initial eligibility are coded, and the continuing eligibility policies are coded in the notes field.

2. Definition of Family

General Notes/Concepts:

This is the definition of family that is used for establishing family size. (Note that the individuals included for income purposes may be different.) This definition assumes that the family (or the "assistance unit") always includes biological/adoptive parents/guardians and their minor children. Any variation to this base group is captured in this category. The variables apply to families who are not automatically eligible for CCDF subsidies.

Subgroup Issues:

None

Additional Coding Notes:

The following variables assume a parent is defined as either a biological or adoptive parent.

3. Income Definition

General Notes/Concepts:

This category describes the types of income included for determining eligibility and copayments. The definitions defined in this category determine if the applicant's income falls below the eligibility thresholds. For the purposes of the database, income is defined as both earned and unearned income. Earnings are defined as income from work (wages, salary or self-employment). It is assumed that all cash income counts as income unless described below. The variables apply to families who are not automatically eligible for CCDF subsidies.

Traditionally included income:

1. Alimony
2. Earnings/wages/salary
3. Unemployment compensation
4. Work study payments
5. AmeriCorps payments
6. Dividends/interest on savings/bonds/trusts
7. Pensions/annuities
8. Veterans' benefits
9. Other cash payments
10. New rental income
11. Social Security
12. Workers' compensation

Traditionally excluded income:

1. WIA/WIOA payments
2. Adoption subsidy payments
3. Loans/grants
4. Capital gain

Subgroup Issues:

None

Additional Coding Notes:

If income is treated differently for irregular work hours, the policy is described in the notes field. If income is treated differently for eligibility and copayment purposes, the policies for eligibility are coded and the copayment policies are described in the variable notes fields. It is assumed that gross income is used in determining financial eligibility. If a manual states that gross income is not used (example: the state uses net income) or there are exceptions to the use of gross income, this information is described in the additional notes section.

4. Eligibility Thresholds

General Notes/Concepts:

This category describes the income eligibility requirements that families must pass in order to be eligible for CCDF. Countable income must be below the provided standard for that particular family size. The variables apply to families who are not automatically eligible for CCDF subsidies.

Additional Coding Notes:

There is one note field for initial eligibility thresholds (Notes_elig), one note field for continuing eligibility thresholds used during the eligibility period (Notes_cont), and one note field for continuing eligibility thresholds used at redetermination (Notes_redeterm), rather than note fields for each individual variable or value. There is also an overall category note field.

7. Verification

General Notes/Concepts:

During the application process, individuals requesting child care assistance must provide verification of eligibility criteria. The variables apply to families who are not automatically eligible for CCDF subsidies.

Subgroup Issues:

The variables capture the policies for the modal CCDF applicant. In cases where there is variation, the policy for the modal applicant will be coded and the variation for the subgroup will be described in the notes.

Additional Coding Notes:

The variables capture what information must be verified at the time of application. Items are coded "yes" if documentation, beyond a statement from the applicant, is required. If a signed or oral statement from the applicant is the only requirement, the item is coded No, and the policy is described in the additional notes field. If information is only verified when questionable, the item is coded No, and the policy is described in the additional notes field.

9. Requirements for Reporting Changes

General Notes/Concepts:

Participants in child care subsidy programs may be required to report changes that occur while they are receiving child care services. Interim changes may include changes in qualifying factors as well as general information such as name or phone number. The variables apply to families who are not automatically eligible for CCDF subsidies.

Subgroup Issues:

None

Additional Coding Notes:

If the manual provides a list of changes that must be reported, items not listed in the manual are coded No, unless the coding notes below indicate otherwise. For the policies captured here, the general rule is coded, and any exceptions are described in the notes fields.

13. Waiting List Policies

General Notes/Concepts:

If there are more children eligible for subsidies (meeting all eligibility requirements) than can be served, a waiting list may be established for families/children who cannot receive subsidies immediately due to funding.

Subgroup Issues:

None

Additional Coding Notes:

These variables capture policies for whether a waiting list is used when funds are not available. They do not capture whether a waiting list is currently in use in the state. If a state has waiting list policies on the books, these variables are coded to reflect those policies, regardless of whether a waiting list is/was in use at the time.

15. Copayment Adjustments

General Notes/Concepts:

A family receiving CCDF-funded subsidies may be required to pay a portion of the cost of child care, referred to in the Database as the "copayment". There may be adjustments for multiple children in care, for part-time vs. full-time care, and for other reasons.

17. Copayment Income Thresholds

General Notes/Concepts:

Copayments may vary by income category. This category gives the monthly income cutoffs defining the income categories for each family size.

Subgroup Issues:

Subgroup variations are captured with separate records.

Additional Coding Notes:

There are three copayment threshold categories/tables that can capture 20 values for each family size (1-10) for a total of 60 values per family size across the three categories:

1. Copayment Income Thresholds 1 (Income levels 1-20)
2. Copayment Income Thresholds 2 (Income levels 21-40)
3. Copayment Income Thresholds 3 (Income levels 41-60)

The thresholds are broken into three categories due to the allowable structure of the underlying database. If a state uses fewer than 20 income thresholds for every family size, the state will only have information entered in Copayment Income Thresholds 1. If a state has between 21 and 40 thresholds, the state will have information entered in Copayment Income Thresholds 1 and Copayment Income Thresholds 2. If a state has more than 40 thresholds, the information will be entered in all three categories/tables.

The variables are named using the following convention: threshold [number of threshold]_[family size]. For example, threshold_2_5 is the second income threshold for family size 5.

The variables are coded using the following options:

- Numeric (up to two decimal places)
- (-4) NA
- (-5) Not in manual

The copayment income thresholds categories/tables then correspond to the three copayment amount categories/tables:

1. Copayment Amount (Copayment (dollar amount or percentage) for income levels 1-20)
2. Copayment Amount 2 (Copayment (dollar amount or percentage) for income levels 21-40)
3. Copayment Amount 3 (Copayment (dollar amount or percentage) for income levels 41-60)

To understand whether the copayment amount values represent percentages or dollar amounts; daily, weekly, or monthly copayments; and the copayment for all children or copayments for the first child in care, please refer to the copayment adjustments category.

This category contains one notes field for the entire category and does not contain individual notes fields for each variable or value.

EXAMPLE

A state uses the following copayment amounts for a two-person family:

- Families with monthly income up to $1,000 pay $100 monthly.
- Families with monthly income from $1,001 to $1,500 pay $200 monthly.

This information is captured in the database as follows:

- In the copayment income thresholds category/table, the first income threshold for family size 2 (threshold_1_2) will show the first income cutoff of $1,000. The second income threshold for family size 2 (threshold_2_2) will show the second income cutoff of 1,500.
- In the copayment amount category/table, the first copayment amount for family size 2 (category_1_2) will show the first copayment amount of $100. The second copayment amount for family size 2 (category_2_2) will show the second copayment amount of $200.

A state uses the following copayment amounts for a three-person family:

- Families with monthly income up to $1,000 pay one percent of income.
- Families with monthly income from $1,001 to $1,500 pay 2 percent of income.

This information is captured in the database as follows:

- In the copayment income thresholds category/table, the first income threshold for family size 3 (threshold_1_3) will show the first income cutoff of $1,000. The second income threshold for family size 3 (threshold_2_3) will show the second income cutoff of 1,500.
- In the copayment amount category/table, the first copayment amount for family size 3 (category_1_3) will show the first copayment amount of one percent. The second copayment amount for family size 3 (category_2_3) will show the second copayment amount of two percent.

18. Copayment Amount

General Notes/Concepts:

Copayments may vary by income category. This category gives the dollar amount or percent applicable to each income category, for each family size. (Whether the figure represents a dollar amount or a percentage, and how that dollar amount or percentage is used, is indicated in the Copayment Adjustments category.)

Subgroup Issues:

Subgroup variations are captured with separate records.

Additional Coding Notes:

There are three copayment amount categories/ tables that can capture 20 values for each family size (1-10) for a total of 60 values per family size across the three categories:

- Copayment Amount 2 (Copayment (dollar amount or percentage) for income levels 21-40)

The amounts are broken into three categories due to the allowable structure of the underlying database. If a state uses fewer than 20 copayment levels for every family size, the state will only have information entered in Copayment Amount 1. If a state has between 21 and 40 copayment levels, the state will have information entered in Copayment Amount 1 and Copayment Amount 2. If a state has more than 40 copayment levels, the information will be entered in all three categories/tables.

The variables are named using the following convention: category_[number of copayment level]_[family size]. For example, amount_2_5 is the second copayment amount for family size 5.

The variables are coded using the following options:

- (-4) NA
- (-5) Not in manual

The copayment amount categories/tables then correspond to the three copayment income threshold categories/tables:

- Copayment Income Thresholds 1 (Income levels 1-20)
- Copayment Income Thresholds 2 (Income levels 21-40)
- Copayment Income Thresholds 3 (Income levels 41-60)

General Notes/Concepts:

20. Reimbursement Rates

General Notes/Concepts:

This category provides information about provider reimbursement rates.

Subgroup Issues:

In order to capture subgroup variation, separate records are coded for four provider types (center, family child care home, group child care home, and in-home). Separate records can also be coded for provider subtypes based on licensing, quality rating, etc.

Additional Coding Notes:

Up to ten records for geographic areas are coded for each state. If the state provides different rates for every county, the rates for the largest county are coded. The category notes include the provider sub-type and how the provider sub-type is defined. The provider sub-type reflects the state-specific name for the given provider group.

21. Basic Eligibility and Other Requirements for Unlicensed Home-Based Providers

General Notes/Concepts:

To ensure the health and safety of children whose care is paid through CCDF, states require unlicensed home-based providers to meet certain standards in order to receive CCDF payments. This category of variables describes certain basic eligibility and other standards not covered in other sections of the database for unlicensed home-based providers who wish to receive CCDF payments for services delivered.

Subgroup Issues:

Variations by type of unlicensed provider are captured using separate records.

Additional Coding Notes:

Variables were renamed in 2018 to begin with Unlicensed instead of Unreg.

22. Background Checks for Unlicensed Home-Based Providers

General Notes/Concepts:

To ensure the health and safety of children whose care is paid through CCDF, states require unlicensed home-based providers to meet certain standards in order to receive CCDF payments. This category of variables describes the background checks to which unlicensed home-based providers and other members of their households are subject if they wish to receive CCDF payments for services delivered.

Subgroup Issues:

Variations according to the type of unlicensed provider are captured using separate records.

Additional Coding Notes:

Beginning with October 2, 2016 coding, new variables were added to capture the types of background checks required under the reauthorization of the Child Care and Development Block Grant Act. The previous set of variables capturing the types of background checks required will no longer be coded as of October 2, 2016. These changes are reflected in the coding and variable coding notes throughout this category.
